

Head of Regulatory Affairs

Biocodex is a global Pharmaceutical company that operates in more than 120 countries. The ambition of the company is to lead the way in the microbiota realm. Biocodex Microbiota Institute produces high quality information on microbiota to our stakeholders worldwide. Biocodex is also supporting microbiota research initiatives globally and locally. Our leading probiotic brands are Precosa and Symbiosys. Beside its probiotic drug roots Biocodex has portfolios in numerous other therapeutic areas. Biocodex global turnover is over EUR 300 million.

Biocodex Nordics group operates in Sweden, Finland, Norway, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. Since the 1960s, the company has a strong track record in Hospital, Primary care and Consumer products.

The Biocodex Nordics Phame team provides a comprehensive range of pharmaceutical and medical services to more than 120 companies in the Nordics. There are 22 specialists in our team working mainly in Finland, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

Read more at <https://www.biocodexnordics.fi/> and <https://biocodexphame.fi/>

We are looking for a Head of Regulatory affairs to our Phame-team in Espoo.

Key responsibilities

You will be leading our Regulatory Affairs team of 8 specialists. You are responsible for developing our Regulatory Affairs services and marketing them to potential new customers. You will also have some client specific RA responsibilities. You will function as a senior advisor within the regulatory affairs team supporting the team whenever needed. You will have a vital role in improving the quality management system in RA, coaching the team and coordinating incoming work tasks. You will work closely with different customers and you may help other PHAME functions (such as compliance, quality and PV) depending on your background and expertise.

About you

You have a life-science or health related education. You should have several years of experience within Regulatory Affairs in the Pharma Industry.

You have a customer focused mindset and a dynamic attitude, and you are committed to continuously develop your competence. You are not afraid of changing situations or working independently. Your quality-orientated mindset is profound, and your approach to work is proactive and cooperative. You demonstrate effective structuring and organizing skills. As a team leader, you are expected to have good communication and foreman skills. Your Microsoft Office -skills are good and you express yourself well in Finnish and English.

Interested?

Please send your application with salary request latest on Monday 28th of October to HR Manager Joanna Jansson: j.jansson@biocodex.fi. We will handle your application immediately upon receiving it, and we will hire as soon as possible; be fast!